For over 100 years, The Clorox Company has heeded the call in times of crisis and as we confront COVID-19 head on, our commitment to the communities who rely on the disinfecting power of our products is stronger than ever. Specifically for CloroxPro, our mission is to provide solutions to eliminate the environment as a source of infection. Delivering against this mission has never been more relevant or urgent.

As such, we've taken immediate and extraordinary measures to elevate our response to what has been unprecedented demand. This response has been activated in a variety of ways:

Demand & Delivery:

- Response teams throughout the company have harnessed innovation and elbow grease to increase output. This includes increasing production at our disinfecting plants to 24 hours a day
- More specifically, we've increased our CloroxPro Germicidal Bleach production to 6 times historical levels to in order to provide another disinfecting option in the absence of ready-to-use wipes and sprays. We've created and deployed new instructions and tools to ensure proper bleach dilution
- We've implemented a product allocation process to ensure product distribution across the country. In addition, we've worked with our partners to accelerate our supply chain and continued our aggressive pursuit of additional capacity outside the current Clorox network

As a result of these actions, we've increased disinfecting product output by almost 18 million units overall as a company and hundreds of trucks are being dispatched to every corner of the country each day.

Donation:

- The company has established an initial $1 million Employee Emergency Relief Fund to provide coronavirus-related support for Clorox employees
- Clorox is donating $5 million to Direct Relief, Centers for Disease Control's Foundation Emergency Response Fund and the American Red Cross.

Lastly, as we operate 24/7 to get essential products to our communities, we recognize that our front-line teams making and shipping these products are the lifeblood of our company. And we have their backs.

To support their safety, we've enhanced our infection prevention measures at all our facilities. We're showing our appreciation to this dedicated production team in a variety of ways, including enhanced pay, incentives and benefits, including greater flexibility around sick-pay, work hours and the relief fund mentioned above.

While we don't know how long this current crisis will last, our promise to you is that we will continue to work tirelessly, not only to manufacture more product, but to identify additional ways to get it to you as quickly and as safely as possible.

Thank you for your partnership and understanding. I wish you, your employees, families and customers safety and good health during this difficult time.

Sincerely,
